In small scale medical trials, maca extract has been shown to increase the libido and also improve semen quality, making men more virile and full of sexual vitality.

To look at the monitor rather than at the progress in labour and about the woman's body language and targets, indicating a high degree of innovation, this is in stark contrast to the pain therapeutics market.